

ABOUT THIS
— AND —
ABOUT THAT

By OLIVER GEDEIST

WORDS.—Words are useful things. They contribute much to happy living when properly used. They are useless unless used. They serve no good purpose merely hidden away in the lexicographer's undisclosed hiding places or between the covers of his dictionary.

EXPRESSION.—I suspect that there are persons who would call a word in the preceding paragraph a BIG word. I mean the word LEXICOGRAPHER. Actually, it is not a big word. There are only 13 letters in the word. And it is so much easier to say "lexicographer" than it is to use the longer and clumsier "maker of dictionaries," which has 20 letters. Try it for yourself. Like this: "The other day I met a maker of dictionaries and he said that makers of dictionaries have really hard work making dictionaries."

EXTREME.—That is an extreme illustration, of course, but it is an exact illustration of the value of words. Often a so-called "big word" will present a whole panorama of meaning that a whole mass of "little" words cannot present. To illustrate: "He caught a cold and it got to be awfully bad and his lungs hurt and he got an awfully high fever and he is awfully sick." A "big" word covering more exactly and quickly is "pneumonia." That word combines and expresses all the symptoms in the longer, clumsier sentence.

WRONG.—Of course, dragging in unnecessary "big" words to show off is wrong. That's properly denoted as "putting on." And "putting on" is reprehensible—and that last is NOT a BIG word.

BEAUTY.—There is unbounded beauty in words. But to achieve that boundless beauty, to permit words, when spoken or written, to enfold the depth of significance, to disclose the vast beauties of language, proper words must be chosen. And one should not be afraid of using proper words. A very great many persons stifle good education by becoming victim to the lazy habit of "short-cutting" speech, leaving their meanings, often, to misunderstanding.

EFFECTIVE.—Woven webs of words are effective. They are effective because they add tinges of color to expression, disclose the depth of meaning, and impregnate the mind of the hearer with the colorful spirit of the speaker's thoughts.

NOT A LIAR.—A few days ago I heard a conversation in which one man called the other a liar. There was no anger. The first man had made a statement of fact couched in language which gave to the second man a completely wrong conception of what was intended. When the second man called the first a liar he implied a deliberate desire of the other to mislead, when, actually, what he meant was that the first man was mistaken. A simple "If you mean what you say, you are in error" would have been much nicer and would not have carried the stigma of dishonor.

POROSITY.—A lecturer on a program with me last winter used the word "porosity" like this: "The emigrants from human porosity frequently infiltrate and offend the olfactory sensitivity of refined people." That was simple pomposity, "putting on" since he meant merely that perspiration often is offensive to others.

GOOD WILL.—Words are serving our best interests when we use them to accomplish some good thing for others, to make them create happiness for others. So often, too often, the careless selection of a word results in "hurt feelings." Of course, people should not permit feelings to be hurt. However, such is the power of words, and such is our dependence upon words, that we become victims of words sometimes when no offense was intended. Careful use of words can bring friendships and present us in a favorable light.

POWER.—There is as much power in the use of words for one person as for another. Sometimes we look upon a speaker on the platform as a "wonderful" person; we hear a salesman with a good vocabulary telling his story, and we think that he "knows his business," simply because he wove a web of words and spun his web effectively.

PERSONAL PLEASURE.—There is pleasure for the individual in the successful use of words. There is pleasure because the careful user of considered words feels a sense of pleasure as he observes the influence of his words on another—as he observes the effectiveness of his speech in registering his thoughts in the other person's mind.

WORDY.—Of course there is the "wordy" gentry who spout the emptiness of the place where thought should manufacture, and there are those who gossip and use words maliciously, and there are those whose tongues run loosely without the restraint of thought. But all of these cannot overrun the idea that words can do much for us as human beings. After all, the degree to which man progresses in the use of words marks his transition from his inarticulate beginning.

HERMAN C. GRASSLE NAMED TO LEAD COUNTY CHEST DRIVE

Herman C. Grassle, Will county auditor, has been appointed to the position of chairman of the county division of the Joliet-Will county Community Chest campaign to be held October 16 to October 27.

Serving with Mr. Grassle on the county committee will be township chairmen from each of the townships in the county. Working with each township chairman will also be township committee members who will campaign for contributions to the chest during the campaign period.

Township chairmen who have agreed to serve on the county committee up to the present time are these: Dale Mottinger, Wheatland; Mrs. Robert McGarvey, DuPage; Albert Krusemark, Jr., Frankfort; Mrs. Walter Baers, New Lenox; Elmer Cooper, Mokena; Mrs. Edward Murphy, Monee; Arthur Hack, Washington; Dr. C. M. Faulkner, Manhattan; Arthur Sippel, Green Garden; Fred H. Blatt, Jackson; Ed Liberty and Mrs. Anna Britz, Channahon; Charles H. Martin, Wilmington; Mrs. John Brieter, Will; and Henry Ogren, Lockport.

Remaining township organizations will be completed this week. A meeting of all township chairmen will be held at 6:30 o'clock on the evening of Thursday, October 9, in Woodruff hotel, Joliet. Campaign supplies will be distributed and instructions given to the workers regarding the campaign.

"This is about the most worthy cause to which we can devote ourselves," said Mr. Grassle. "The 16 agencies of the Community Chest by their services directly or indirectly affect the lives of everyone of us. Most of the agencies are countywide in their services. The Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Catholic Charity and Home Bureau, Guardian Angel home, Lutheran Home for Children, Industrial Health camp, Silver Cross hospital, Social Service exchange, and the YMCA extend their services directly through the county. Many of these depend entirely upon the Community Chest for their necessary operating funds. Therefore, if they are to continue their programs during the coming year, it is necessary that we be successful in reaching our goal by the close of the campaign on October 27. With the help of everyone, worker and contributor alike, I am sure that we can do this." The Community Chest goal this year will be $131,700.

Frankfort Gridders
Defeat New Lenox
Squad By 20 to 12

Frankfort's teen-age football team opened its 1947 season with a 20 to 12 victory over New Lenox on the New Lenox field last Sunday. Frankfort led at the half 7-6.

Kenny Waldvogel caught a forward pass from Jimmy Lind for Frankfort's first score and Johnny Fedak place-kicked the extra point. Ed Goedders scored the winners' second marker on a 25-yard end run, but an attempted pass for the point was incomplete.

Just before the third quarter ended, Waldvogel took a lateral pass from Fedak and scampered around end for 25 yards and another touchdown. Fedak kicked the point again to end the scoring for Frankfort.

Frankfort's starting lineup was as follows:

Clare Warning and Jimmy Lind, ends; Erickson and Wes DePorto, tackles; Rohy Vaughn and Len Bushon, guards; Lyn Kohlhaugen, center; Johnny Fedak, quarterback; Kenny Waldvogel and Ron Warning, halfbacks; and Ed Goedders, fullback. Jimmy Lind was the team's captain.

(Editor's Note: We regret the absence of New Lenox line-up. It was not supplied. Publicity managers are requested to send line-ups of both teams.)

Mrs. Cooper Tells Of Florida Storm

How does it feel to go through a terrifying hurricane?

How would you like to board yourself up so you could not see outside—and hear the roar of a wind having power to lift up your house with you in it—and blow you both away; that is, blow you both away if you were not crushed under the falling structure?

Mrs. Adele Cooper has written an interesting story about the recent Florida storm. Watch for it next week in The Semmler Newspapers.

Stiff Penalties Set For Street Post Damage

Mokena village board of trustees Tuesday night announced that breaking and damaging street sign posts is to be an expensive pastime.

Only recently installed, the board said, a number of the posts have been damaged and some broken. Vigorous action was ordered by the board, with a minimum fine of $25 ordered upon conviction. In addition to the fine, it is likely that youngsters found guilty will be turned over to juvenile authorities. The board appeared in a mood to make destructiveness highly embarrassing.

Autumn Sunset
(Over Storied Woods)

In the western Heavens, way up high,
O'er the dark and distant woods,
On many a night you may see, if you will,

Splashed across the sky,

Pictures of beauty, rare and fine,
Done by a Master's hand,
Pictures no artist could ever paint,
Color or form or line.

Streaks of pink and bands of blue
And the gray of rising smoke,
Flame of fire in a brilliant blaze
And a violet's orchid hue,

And all around, the Autumn haze
Of an Indian summer day
Frames the glory of setting sun
In shades of softest maize.

25th Anniversary
Lures Many

By Mrs. M. M. Semmler

Because of many fine friends and the enthusiastic interest of their son Alan, Thursday October 2, was a real red letter day in the life of Dr. and Mrs. W. V. Hedges of Frankfort. It was their 25th wedding anniversary, and had it not been for the protest of their son and friends, they would have let the day pass quietly.

As it was, they held open house in their home in the afternoon and evening, when more than 300 guests called to wish them well. Mrs. Henry Breidert and Mrs. Walter Pfaff received in the afternoon and Mrs. Glenn Folkers and Mrs. Lawrence Woodman, in the evening, and they were also in charge of the guest book.

Lovely bouquets of chrysanthemums, white daisies and gladioli were used to decorate the buffet and living room. Mrs. Hedges wore a black gown with an orchid corsage.

The dining table was covered with a lace spread and Mrs. Walter Boeyer, of Reddick, mother of Mrs. Hedges, served in the afternoon at the coffee urn with Mrs. Otto Herschbach, at the punch bowl. They were replaced for the evening hours by Mrs. Louis Ebert of Tinley Park, and Mrs. Richard Smullen of Joliet. A three tiered cake graced the table.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heusner entertained for the wedding anniversary dinner in their home at 6 o'clock. Beside the honored couple, present at the dinner were their son Roger, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Breidert, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Woodman, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pfaff, Mrs. Boeyer and Mrs. Herschbach. Alan Hedges, who had much to do with the affair, was confined to bed with the flu.

Many gifts and flowers and 270 cards and telegrams were received. Guests came from Reddick, Monee, Manhattan, Mokena, Joliet, New Lenox, and Chicago.

The pleasant affair was the result of the planning of Alan Hedges, Mrs. Della Haake, Mrs. Glenn Folkers and Mrs. Fred Heusner.

The board announced that while penalties for failure to put approved numbers can be imposed, it is hoped that everyone will immediately place the numbers in a cooperative spirit.

Mokena School
News

By Audrey Niehammer

We were sorry to hear that Marilyn Yunker had an appendicitis operation Tuesday evening last week, but we were glad to hear she is recovering nicely and will be able to return home Tuesday of this week from Silver Cross hospital.

The Jr. High and Mrs. Cappel surprised David Gode Friday, October 3, on his birthday, with a birthday cake and gifts. The officers of the eighth grade literary club took the gifts over to him. They were Bill Bradley, president, and JoAnn Rueckert, secretary. They reported, "He looked good and might be able to come back to school Monday, October 13."

The eighth grade literary club held a social hour last Friday morning for the seventh grade. The group enjoyed dancing. The literary club has many more enjoyable times planned for the school year.

We are glad to report that the attendance record is improving.

The girls' physical education class led by Mrs. Krause is having an exciting and friendly competition in playing baseball. The girls have chosen teams.

Our science books as yet have not arrived so there hasn't been any science classes as yet. But we have been kept busy with all our other studies.

Our reading circle books have arrived, so we can look forward to lots of good reading.

The Red Cross has put on a drive in the school, so we are working for a 100 percent membership in it.

Room 2

Mrs. John Armin visited the third and fourth grade room on Tuesday, September 29.

We have started our Jr. Red Cross drive. All are cooperating with enrollment.

The girls of the third and fourth grades met with their leaders after school Wednesday, October 1, for their first Brownie meeting.

Primary Room

The Primary Room has started listening to the WLS School Time programs, which are on the radio at 1:15 p. m. every school day.

On Tuesday we listen to "The Book Box" and on Wednesday to "The Magic Harp." After each program the children answer questions and sometimes draw pictures.

We have 100 percent enrollment in the American Junior Red Cross.

The following children received a gold star for perfect attendance in September: Patty Dath, Barbara Fossum, Carole Gilmore, Fred Kiehl, Kenneth Miller, Barbara Muehler, Holly Repholz, Ruth Reynolds, Diane Sorensen, Carole Tribble, Mickey Werner, Tommy Williams, Nancy Armin, Sheila Bennett, Kathryn Cooper, Teddy Dunham, Tommy Dunham, David Schultz, Theresa Shunko, Roger Swart, Robert Teske, and Robert Yunker.

The following second-graders received a gold star for four perfect spelling lessons: Linda Sue Powers and Billy Westman.

FIFTH AND SIXTH GRADE NEWS

Our new science books have arrived and we are enjoying them very much. While studying about birds the other day, a woodpecker in the elm tree outside our window demonstrated to us his method of hunting insect larvae under the bark of the tree.

Henry Clark brought in several caterpillars. We shall be watching to see if they will spin their cocoons.

Our new reading circle books have come, so we are busy with our book reports.

Our first contribution to the Junior Red Cross was completed this week. We made Halloween favors.

Cecil Ambuehl is our librarian this week. Billy Weber has been appointed as librarian for the next two weeks.

Frederick Rauch and Billy Schultz brought a snake to school. We will use it in our science class. It was brought in a jar, so we feel safe in watching it.

"Use" Map for N. L.
Is Being Prepared

A "use" map, showing the present use of all property in New Lenox, is being prepared by the zoning commission, Chairman Walter Baers has announced.

The map is a part of the zoning commission's plans for setting up a permanent zoning plan for the village, the chairman said. The commission, he stated, is working slowly, taking into account the present and future values of the village.

The board of trustees and president Cole some time ago presented a temporary zoning ordinance as a stop-gap against property values being depreciated by the construction of shacks in the village. The temporary ordinance is to run for only 18 months, giving time for assembling adequate data for turning out a permanent zoning law.

The commission seeks, Chairman Baers said, to avoid hardships and to give protection to homes already established.

Officers to Curb
N. L. Rowdiness

Special officers have been appointed by New Lenox officials for patrol work during the Halloween period, it was announced Saturday. There will be no interference with normal childish fun, it was said, but destructiveness and nuisances beyond childish fun will be dealt with severely, it was said.

Reports have been made of nuisances by "big children," and one of the duties of the regular patrolman, Stanley Drake, will be to arrest rowdies of nuisances, it was said, as well as to hold down excessive speeding around the village.

Sewer Project
Is Studied
In New Lenox

New Lenox officials are investigating the feasibility of sewer installation, according to an announcement by village authorities last week.

With state drainage and health bodies urging control of sewage, the New Lenox board of village trustees instituted a survey by an engineer to determine if the village can finance a sewer plan.

The village board was able, it was stated, to secure an engineer to make the survey at little cost to the village, his charge being only $100, and because of the urgency of the need it was decided to find out how much a sewer system and disposal plant would cost.

Lois Cooper Will Take Vows Oct. 19

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey I. Cooper of Orland Park announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Lois, to Wilbur Hossbach of Frankfort, Sunday, October 18, 3 p. m., in Orland Methodist church.

The reception will be held at 8 p. m. at Saenger hall in Tinley Park. Invitations, it was said, will not be required.

Final Rites Held
For Mrs. E. Klose

The funeral services of Mrs. Elizabeth Klose, widow of the late John Klose, were held in the Hirsch funeral home at Tinley Park Monday afternoon. The Rev. Lloyd Coleman, pastor of the Frankfort Methodist church, officiated. Mrs. Klose lived for many years on a farm just east of Mokena. For the past two and a half years she suffered from cancer, but was always cheerful, never complaining.

Brownies to Meet

Mokena Brownies will begin the season in the school building next Wednesday, October 15, at a "get-acquainted" meeting. There are 20 second, third, and fourth-grade pupils in the Brownies at the present time, leaders Mrs. Robert Gilmore and Mrs. Thomas Powers announced.

Time: 3:30 to 4:30. Meeting dates: Every two weeks.

Handicraft projects will be started at the second meeting of the season.

Assaulted Small Girl,
Asks To Be Set Free

Mayor F. Carlton Cole of New Lenox has written a letter to the Illinois parole board opposing the release of James L. Lincoln, who is serving a one to 14-year term for assault with intent to murder Carol Williams, nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Williams, Maple road, New Lenox township, the mayor announced last week.

Lincoln, 31, was sentenced to the penitentiary June 18, last year following his plea of guilty to assaulting the little girl. His application for parole, made in May, was continued until the fall meeting of the board, which will be held October 28.

The mayor's letter pointed out that the assault on the little girl was not the only ground upon which opposition to parole was based. The mayor related other actions of Lincoln and urged the board that with former habits of the man in mind, the village of New Lenox did not want him around that neighborhood again.

"One of his type should not be released to make further assaults," the mayor told the board in his protest. "It is better for the community for Lincoln to remain under control, where he cannot further molest innocent children."

A petition for parole was filed for Lincoln last week and this brought prompt action by Mayor Cole. New Lenox officials have expressed the conviction that many persons of the village will enter protests against the release of the convicted man, and it is expected that any inclination to release Lincoln will be bitterly contested.

Keuch-Dunn

Miss Eleanor M. Keuch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Keuch of Tinley Park, became the bride of Charles W. Dunn at a ceremony in Tinley Park Methodist church last Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The pastor, the Rev. J. Frank Anderson, performed the double-ring ceremony.

Mrs. Henry Bechstein was at the organ and presented a program of appropriate music and accompanied Robert Moe when he sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

Bridesmaids, the Misses Roberta Bickley, Ruth Stege, and Lilly Lang, were gown in pale blue satin, each carrying a bouquet of pink carnations. They wore long lace gloves and coronet of lace in blue, matching their gowns, fashioned identically, with fitted bodice, peplum short sleeves, sweetheart neck and, floor-length skirts. Miss Jean Keuch served her sister as maid of honor, wearing a peach-colored gown identical with the gowns of bridesmaids. She carried a bouquet of blue carnations, with peach gloves and head dress.

The flower girl, little Georgine Keuch, was gown similarly in a dress of peach satin, floor length, coronet, and gloves to match, with a basket of rose petals to be dropped along the way.

Groom's attendants were Jimmy Zimmerman, Douglas Aden, and Harold Keuch. John Dunn, brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride, who was escorted by her father, wore white satin with train, with a pearl-beaded coronet and gloves elbow-length veil which was held in place with a pearl-beaded coronet and gloves to match. Her bouquet was of white carnations and roses tied with satin ribbon.

Mrs. Keuch, mother of the bride, wore a dress of fuchsia crepe, while the groom's mother wore gray crepe with silver sequins and beads. Each wore a corsage of pink and white carnations.

A reception followed in the bride's home, where the table was centered with a three-tiered cake with a miniature bride and groom. Rooms and tables were decorated in the bride's chosen colors, white and pink.

Guests present came from Chicago, Berwyn, Frankfort, Mokena, Wilmington, Tinley Park, Orland, and New Lenox.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunn will live in Chicago.

Arterial Streets
To Get Gas Money

Arterial streets, north and south sides, New Lenox, will benefit from gas tax money when it is received next spring, New Lenox officials announced at the meeting of the board Wednesday night, last week.

The funds will be inadequate, according to officials, to do a first-class job on all the village streets, but it is expected that when operations start all the worst places will be patched or better throughout the village.

The board also enacted legislation assuring daylight saving for the community when Chicago and other large places go on daylight time next year. The action was taken to assure harmony of hours between New Lenox and Chicago and other places operating under state law.

ANCIENT RIVALRY RENEWED . . . Mayhem was the password of the day when Cherokee Indians renewed the game of stickball, a sports competition hundreds of years old, at the annual Cherokee, N. C., fair.

IN THESE UNITED STATES

Mayhem Prevails as Indians Renew Ancient Competition

WNU Features.

CHEROKEE, N. C. — Cherokee Indians smile politely at "hoary" football traditions which have pitted teams against each other, at the longest count, for only two generations. Before De Soto came through this country in 1540, ancient Indian clans for centuries had been competing in stickball, a competition so honored in time and custom and so intent in purpose that the annual games were surrounded by secret rites and ceremonies.

A renewal of that ancient rivalry is staged annually as a highlight of the Cherokee fall fair, although later-day games lack a lot of the blood-letting of aboriginal days. An innovation at this fall's fair was a stickball game in which children's teams competed for the first time publicly.

Rough Is Right.

The game itself, also played by other Indian tribes in America, is one of the roughest sports in the world. Forerunner of lacrosse, it is played with a small ball, with 10 players on a side, each armed with two small home-made rackets. The idea is to propel the ball across a goal line, represented by two willows stuck in the ground. The ball may be advanced in any manner whatever — carried, thrown, passed or kicked. Once on the ground, however, it may not be picked up except with the rackets.

What makes Indian ball so exciting is simply the absence of rules. Once a player has the ball, he is fair game for any sort of treatment, including mayhem. Stripped to trunks, the Indians run, tackle, wrestle, choke and bite without let or hindrance. The rackets sometimes are used in whacking opponents over the head or across the shins.

What the spectators see is something like this:

Opposing teams march on the field and face each other in two lines where individual opponents are "matched," sometimes after much wrangling. Each man has a personal opponent and they are mutually responsible for guarding their opposites. The ball, formerly a hickory nut, is tossed into the air, and the game is on.

When a player gets the ball, he usually pops it into his mouth and lights out for the goal. Opponents are privileged to run him down, choke the ball out of his mouth or otherwise discourage him. The team first getting 12 goals is winner.

A game might last 30 minutes—it might last all day. A player attempting to tackle a ball-carrier is liable to prompt tackling by his "guard" or anyone, and sometimes the game comes to a stalemate with 10 wrestling matches going on at once. There are no rest periods and no substitutions. If a player is disabled, the opposing team must discard a man and the game continues.

On the field are "drivers," elderly men who are armed with long switches. With these they point toward the small and often obscure ball or to the player hiding it, crying "hahni! hahni!" ("here! here!"). They also are empowered to beat any laggard player, but this privilege seldom is exercised nowadays.

Some surreptitious betting is done as the teams meet in midfield. In former days, the squaws were the heaviest bettors, putting up wagers of beads, blankets, cattle, baskets and even their shorn locks.

Element of Culture.

The ball games were important in ancient Cherokee culture. Originally there were six clans, of which there are vestigial remains of four. The clans had a blood revenge pattern, and there was one town of refuge (Echota) in which prospective victims were inviolate. Many social taboos, including marrying, joking and other relationships, were defined by clan rules, which heightened rivalry of the ball games.

Teams were carefully prepared for the contests, the rites including a purification of rackets at the river's edge, sacrifice of players with rattlesnake fangs and all-night dances. Today little remains of this, although elders sometimes still gather team members for conferences, the nature of which are not freely discussed. Young bucks, sophisticated by overseas service, laugh at the old superstitions, but the teams nevertheless usually emerge as a unit from the banks of the Oconaluftee just before going into action.

Even Lowly Hole In Donut To Rate Special Centennial

In the maze of special weeks and observances eventually there should be a limit, even in the giddy postwar world. But now comes forth announcement of a celebration in October to note the centennial of the hole in the donut. Impetus for the event, as you'd undoubtedly suspect, comes from the baking industry.

Although the celebration itself may rate only passing notice, historical significance is attached to that lowly hole in the donut. That, at least, is the contention of Camden, Me., where the celebration will get its official start. Part of Camden's fame emanates from the fact that it is the birthplace of the late Capt. Hanson Gregory, acknowledged inventor of the hole in the donut.

Prior to 1847, all donuts or round cakes, as they were known then, were made without the hole. Sometimes a round cake had a nut in the center and historians attribute the origin of the name "donut" to this fact.

At any rate, during the year 1847, Captain Gregory was sailing his sturdy vessel in northern waters. He and his men liked the round cake with a doughy center, eating it not only at mealtime but also as a snack when they were at the steering wheel. One October day in 1847, Captain Gregory himself was at the steering wheel with a handful of donuts or round cakes. He had no place to put the cakes so he rammed the soft cakes over the spokes of the steering wheel, thus forcing a hole through each of them.

He and the men liked the cake with the hole so much that Captain Gregory ordered the ship's cook to make all future donuts with holes in them and thus—according to the New England Legend—the hole in the donut was born.

The celebration of the 100th anniversary of the donut hole will take place at the home of the late Captain Gregory. There late in October, a permanent plaque will be placed at his old homestead.

From Maine, straight across the country, various celebrations are planned in California, Oregon and Washington to honor the memory of the Maine captain.

Virginia Marks Site of 'Wreck of Old 97'

DANVILLE, VA.—Famed in song and story, the site of "the wreck of the old 97" finally has been marked as an historical site by the state conservation commission.

An historical site sign has been erected at the point on Danville's outskirts where the Southern railway's fast mail-express train plunged from a trestle into a ravine that September day in 1903. Nine were killed and seven injured in the wreck.

Reason most widely given for the state's delay in putting up the marker designating the famous wreck is that until recently the ravine where the 97 came a cropper was almost inaccessible. The Southern railway changed its main line roadbed several years ago and later tore down the trestle. A new highway now crosses the ravine.

Veterans' SERVICE BUREAU

EDITOR'S NOTE: This Newspaper through special arrangement with the Washington Bureau of Western Newspaper Union at 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., is able to bring readers this weekly column on problems of the veteran and serviceman and his family. Questions may be addressed to the above Bureau and they will be answered in a subsequent column. No replies can be made direct by mail, but only in the column which will appear in this newspaper regularly.

Student-Exchange Program

Veterans' administration has received requests for information from hundreds of veterans concerning provisions of the law providing for study abroad on a student-exchange basis. VA advises that it has nothing to do with this law, known as the Fulbright act, since it is operated by the state department. Queries should be addressed to the Division of International Exchange of Persons, Department of State, Washington 25, D.C.

This law authorizes the department of state to use foreign currencies and credits acquired through the sale of surplus property abroad for the program of student exchanges. Under its provisions preference for financial aid is given to veterans of World Wars I and II for study in schools of foreign countries. This assistance may include payment of transportation, tuition, maintenance and other expenses incident to scholastic activity.

Veterans' administration has nothing to do with the student-exchange program and is limited only to the program which enables a World War II veteran to study in a foreign institution under the same G.I. bill provisions that apply to study in a college or university here in the United States.

Questions and Answers

Q. Our son contracted an asthmatic condition and malaria while serving in the Solomon Islands. He was discharged for disability and was given a 10 per cent rating by Veterans' administration because of malaria. He returned to his job in a library and found that while he had no recurring attacks of malaria he did suffer from asthma to such an extent that it proved a handicap in his job in the library. Since he already has received his disability pension is there anything that can be done about this new condition? —Mrs. J. A. L., Louisville, Ky.

A. The fact that your son was awarded a 10 per cent disability for malaria does not preclude his receiving an additional disability rating for asthma or any other malady which may have resulted from his service in the armed forces. He should apply for examination immediately at the nearest Veterans' administration office or at the office where he received his original disability rating.

Q. I am a veteran of World War II and served about four years in the army. While in the service I contracted tuberculosis and spent many months in a veterans hospital. I was discharged as an arrested case but since my discharge I find that I am hardly able to do any work and I am wondering if there is something I can do about it either to obtain an increased compensation or to receive additional treatment from Veterans' administration. Can you advise me? —A. L. B., Parsons, Kas.

A. Yes, we believe there is something that can be done since Veterans' administration recently announced a new program for arrested pulmonary tuberculosis cases. Under the previous plan, as perhaps in your case, payments were reduced by 50 per cent within six months of the veteran's discharge, whereas under the new plan these veterans are to be examined every six months. If the examination indicates they are unable to resume employment safely, doctors will certify their findings so that VA may determine whether to continue full compensation payments for an additional six months. Under this plan these six-month examinations and continued payments may continue on a totally disabled basis up to two years from the date of discharge from any VA hospital. We suggest that you return to the hospital from which you were discharged and immediately inquire into the operation of this new program.

Q. I am a disabled veteran who has just received a free automobile because I have lost the use of my right leg as a result of war injuries. Must I declare the value of my car when I file my income tax next year? —V. T. R., Greenville, S. C.

A. No. The U. S. tax court ruled recently that such autos are part of the veterans' disability allowances and are not subject to taxation.

Q. I was released from the army with a bad conduct discharge and would like to know if I am entitled to any of the benefits under the G.I. bill. —J. O. C., Lima, Ohio.

A. It will depend entirely upon the nature of your discharge. On all discharges other than honorable it remains up to Veterans' administration to determine whether your discharge merits entitlement to benefits under the G.I. bill. You should contact your nearest VA office for a decision. Your case will be thoroughly reviewed, and Veterans' administration will fix your status.

Portlight by GRANTLAND RICE

THERE seems to be an opinion around that major league baseball's playing standards reached a new low in the season just closed. This is a point hard to prove, and I doubt that it is true.

In the ebb and flow of the last 40 years, we've looked at a long parade of stars. We also have peered at a still longer parade of pretty sour ball clubs, and that goes for hitting, pitching and fielding.

No one can doubt that the four war years held back many a budding rookie, lifted from minor league training to war service. Some of these were killed. Many more were wounded. All were removed from training action at vital years—19 to 23.

This doesn't include such veterans as Hank Greenberg, who lost five years, Bobby Feller, Johnny Mize and so many others who were halted in their prime.

Many of these have had remarkable comebacks—Greenberg leading the home-run makers last season; Ted Williams, three years away from baseball, leading his league in practically every department where a bat figures; Joe Gordon; Johnny Mize, challenging Babe Ruth's incredible figure of 60 home runs in a year; not to overlook Walker Cooper.

And what two seasons—meaning 1946 and 1947—can you recall that produced a longer list of young stars: Ewell Blackwell, Ralph Kiner, Yogi Berra, Bobby Thompson, Jackie Robinson, Spider Jorgenson, Spec Shea, Earl Torgerson, Bruce Edwards and many other first or second-year men?

Always Been That Way

There have been bad major league ball clubs this season, and many rather sour big league ball players. But this has happened since Uncle Abner Doubleday had his dream.

The Phillies, in last place, are a far better bunch than the tail-end Phillies of years we still remember. And I could give you the names of many other clubs in the past that were strictly moth-eaten, of many other ball players who were not even good minor leaguers.

To listen, and to read, you might think at times there were no good ball players left. What about Harry Walker, Williams, Joe DiMaggio, Pee Wee Reese, Ed Stanky, Pete Reiser, Mize, Willard Marshall—most of the Cardinals—Cooper, Gordon, Bob Feller, Tommy Henrich, Augie Galan, Bob Elliott, George Kell, Grady Hatton, Johnny Sain, Warren Spahn and many more who would have been good in any past baseball season?

It is pleasant for those growing older to look back on the glories of the past when they, too, were young. But they overlook one major point—that practically every athletic achievement that can be timed or measured has known a long run of broken records.

Modern Athlete Better

Practically every past athletic record has been smashed year after year. You can't measure football, baseball, golf or tennis by the clock or the tape. But in all games that can be timed and taped, there has been a big improvement. Other games must depend upon opinions, which are about as stable as will-o'-the-wisps.

Those talking and writing of baseball's past glory have forgotten teams that couldn't draw 300 into the gate—teams that couldn't draw 300,000 in 154 games.

Baseball in 1947 has been far from flawless or spotless, but it has been one of the most interesting campaigns yet offered. One answer is an attendance total for all parks that will reach or pass 20 million, where in many past years a nine million total was rated an exceptional turnout.

Baseball always has had one weakness. This was the average condition of its players. Few ball players keep in the condition needed to play 35 exhibition and 154 pennant games—a total close to 190 games a year. Poor condition accounts for so many bad legs, arm trouble, back trouble and other ills and ailments that afflict so many of the hired men.

Keeping in Shape

One famous athletic trainer told me recently that he could take a tail-end team and get it into condition that would net a pennant. He probably meant: "If I could get it into condition." Which he probably couldn't.

"A ball player should live on his legs just about all the year round." This statement was given me by Ty Cobb and Joe Medwick. Cobb went in for hunting. Medwick for golf. I don't believe either ever got out of shape. You know Cobb's record. And look at Medwick's amazing work this season, long after he was supposed to be through.

Horse Winner of Race in Up-Side-Down Position

Probably the only race ever won by a horse while in an upside-down position was run at Dargaville, New Zealand, on February 2, 1931, says Collier's.

Ridden by Joe Parson, this thoroughbred, Brampton, was within 40 feet of the finish when it suddenly stumbled and fell with a force that caused it to roll over several times and then slide across the line, with its clinging jockey, a split second ahead of the horse that came in second.

High Prices Not Blamed on Farmers

President Charles B. Shuman of the Illinois Agricultural association recently reported that, according to a recent nationwide poll, no more than one per cent of the American people blamed farmers for high food prices.

"It is true," he said, "that food prices are high; so are practically all prices. And it would be better if prices in general were stabilized at lower levels."

"But it is good to know," he continued, "that consumers do not blame farmers and that they realize that high food prices have resulted from unusually high domestic and foreign demand and unfavorable weather."

"Farmers," Shuman said, "did their best to bring in another record crop which would have tended to stabilize food prices, but rains and drought are factors over which we have little or no control."

"With all the talk of high food prices," he continued, "it is interesting to note that the average consumer is spending approximately the same proportion to his income for food today as he did in 1939, according to the United States Department of Agriculture."

"Some consumers," he said, "lose sight of the fact that production costs on the farm are rising just as rapidly as food prices. In fact, the farmer's income today buys less than it did a year ago according to the parity price ratio."

PARKSIDE

Tinley Park's Newest Subdivision

OFFICE: 167th & Oak Park Avenue

This scientifically planned subdivision embodies the most progressive ideas of community development. The winding street plan permits maximum safety for children.
There are no hidden corners or alleys. The minimum parcel of property is 60 feet in width. The unique business section with its enormous broad street allows a maximum of parking space.

The new features incorporated in Parkside assure high valuation for mortgage purposes and likewise enhanced future value as the subdivision develops. When completed some five hundred and fifty new families or 2200 new faces will reside in Tinley Park's "Parkside."

All progressively minded citizens of Tinley Park will be vitaly interested in the progress of Parkside because of its beneficial effects to business as well as every citizen of the community.

War Crops Drained Out Soil Minerals

Big corn and soybean crops during 1942-1946 have intensified the drain of all the more common mineral elements from Illinois soils, according to O. L. Whalin, University of Illinois Agricultural extension service. He said that the unusual firing of corn in August was due only partly to dry weather and that lack of nitrogen was a more important cause.

During this five-year period only about half of the nitrogen taken from the soil was replaced. This replacement included nitrogen in fertilizer applications, plus 60 percent of the nitrogen in legumes harvested and in sweet clover plowed under (about two-thirds of the nitrogen in legumes when inoculated comes from the air).

Also, only about half of the phosphorus removed from the soil was put back, and less than one-thirtieth as much potassium was added through commercial fertilizers as was removed by harvested crops.

"This heavy drain on the mineral supply in the soil has reached the point where yields on many soils definitely depend on the amount of minerals applied," Mr. Whalin stated. "Manure, inoculated legumes, phosphate, and potash applied as required will maintain and even increase yields on most Illinois soils. Carrying out such a program also calls for liming much of the land in order to grow legumes."

During the five-year period about 1,500,000 tons of nitrogen were returned to the land compared with approximately 3,300,000 tons removed in harvested crops.

Election Calendar Issued by Barrett

Copies of the 1948 primary and general election calendar, just off the press, have been distributed to county clerks and other election officials by the office of Secretary of State Edward J. Barrett.

The calendar includes dates governing next year's national, state, and county elections, school elections, and the judicial election in the fourth supreme court district.

The primary for the nomination of candidates for state and county offices will be held April 13, 1948. The general election for national, state, and county offices will be November 2, April 6 and 10, and the judicial election for June 7, next year.

The calendar includes for the first time, the secretary stated, a listing of electoral votes by states, a feature added to meet many requests his office receives for that information. Also included in the booklet is a tabulation of the minimum number of signatures required for nominating petitions for various offices. Of particular interest in this category is the list of required signatures by districts for nominating petitions for delegates and alternates to the national nominating conventions and for representatives in Congress. These new figures are based on the 1947 congressional reapportionment act, now pending a decision of the Supreme Court.

Insemination Held Better Herd Aid

Evidence that many dairy herds in Illinois are being improved in production, type and value as a result of organized artificial breeding is unmistakable, observes C. S. Rhode, dairy extension specialist, University of Illinois college of agriculture.

Dairy Cattle Breeding association have an average 305-day two-milkings a day mature-equivalent production of 12,705 pounds of milk and 454 pounds of butterfat. Daughters of association bulls have sold as high as $3,000. Several others have sold for $1,000 each.

There are three breeding associations now operating in 63 counties in Illinois, the one for the south is located at Breese; the central Illinois association at Monticello, and the one for the north at Dundee. With proper organization this service can be made available to any county in the state. Mr. Rhode stated that he anticipates that more than 100,000 cows will be bred artificially during 1947.

"Organized artificial breeding of dairy cattle in Illinois is the result of a desire on the part of many dairymen with grade and purebred herds to have a breeding program that will make possible sustained improvement in production, type and test," he said.

Keigher-Reiter

Autumn shades predominated at the wedding of Miss Ruth Marie Keigher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Keigher, 603 South Water street, Wilmington, and George LaVerne Reiter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond G. Reiter of New Lenox, last Saturday morning.

The 10 o'clock ceremony and nuptial mass was performed by Rev. George Moran in St. Rose's Catholic church of Wilmington. Mrs. Peter Joyce of Chicago, guest soloist, sang "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother," "Ave Maria" and "Panis Angelicus."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of lace and tulle. The gown was fashioned with an illusion neckline and a yoke which was edged with a ruffle of lace. The fitted bodice and long tapering sleeves were of chantilly lace, and the fully gathered skirt of tulle ended in a slight train. Her fingertip veil was held in place with a tiara of seed pearls, and her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls. She carried a white prayer book, a gift of the bridegroom which was adorned with baby white mums. Streamers of white satin and baby mums fell from the prayer book.

Miss Lucille Keigher, sister of the bride, maid of honor, wore a deep chartreuse tulle and lace gown with cap sleeves and matching gauntlets. A matching colored headpiece formed a crown of ruffles across her head. She carried bronze mums surrounded by contrasting green ivy.

The bridesmaids were Miss Claire Reiter and Miss DeLann McCarthy of Culver, Ind. Their gowns and headpiece were of pale chartreuse and were fashioned like the maid of honors. They also carried bronze mums.

Melvin Reiter served as best man for his brother, while ushers were Donald Bernhard, Manning Keigher, Donald J. Keigher, and Robert R. Reiter, all brothers of the bride and groom.

A wedding breakfast was served for the bridal party and immediate families at Hotel Louis Joliet. A reception was held in the couple's honor from 2 until 5 o'clock in the home of the bride's parents. More than 250 guests were present. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake.

Double crystal candelabra flanked the cake. Presiding at the punch bowls which were placed at each end of the table were Miss Mary Keigher and Miss Bernadine Van Dune. Also assisting were Mrs. Ward Rupp and Miss Marjorie Keigher.

The bride's mother wore a black crepe dress with silver and blue sequin trim. Her frost-white hat was trimmed with matching plumes and her corsage was of white baby mums. Mrs. Reiter chose Nile green crepe for her dress and wore black accessories. Her corsage was also of white baby mums.

The new Mrs. Reiter was attired in a blue finely checked tailored suit with a pencil-slim skirt when they left for a wedding trip to the Smoky mountains. Her hat was frost-white and her accessories were navy blue. She had a corsage of white baby mums. After their return the couple will live at 616 West Healey avenue, Champaign, where Mr. Reiter will complete his senior studies in civil engineering at the University of Illinois.

The New Lenox Garden club met for its regular monthly meeting Thursday, October 2, at the home of Mrs. Dean Bright. Mrs. Leslie Brownlee was co-hostess. Dessert-coffee was served to 14 members and three guests. In the absence of the president, Mrs. O. V. Rowe, Mrs. L. E. Martin conducted the meeting. After the plant and seed exchange the group drove to the Pilcher park conservatory, where they enjoyed a tour through the various departments. The club also heard a lecture given by the head gardener on the care and cultivation of all types of chrysanthemums. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. D. Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. William Harding have returned home from a 10-day visit with relatives and friends in eastern Nebraska. While there they attended a family reunion.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

How to Tell You're Getting Old

Doc Walters gave me this formula: It's a sure-fire sign you're getting old when you resent other people having a good time.

And the Doc means it hasn't much to do with age. There are old folks in our town who get a big kick out of seeing other people enjoy themselves—seems to keep them young in spirit, with a twinkle in their eyes!

And there are some others who resent the young folks going fishing; who feel that community games and dances are just a waste of time; or who criticize temperate people for enjoying a mellow glass of beer with friends.

They're often well-intentioned folks, too. But from where I sit, the minute we criticize our neighbors for enjoying wholesome pleasures—like a game of horseshoes, a glass of beer, or an afternoon's fishing—it's a sure sign we're growing old (in spirit anyway) no matter what our age is.

HIGH COST OF LIVING PROBE . . . Mrs. Nessa Feldman of the League of Women Shoppers presented her case against soaring food prices in graphic fashion when she appeared before a joint congressional sub-committee which was holding hearings on the abnormally high cost of living. She demonstrated the difference between prices of the same foods in 1939 and 1947. Numerous other groups also appeared before the committee, headed by Sen. Ralph E. Flanders (Rep., Vt.) to protest against prices.

WIND OF FURY STRIKES SOUTH . . . Rolling in from the Atlantic ocean, the worst hurricane this country had experienced since 1935 slashed destructively across the southern third of Florida, leaving in its wake desolate scenes like this one at West Palm Beach. Veering out across the Gulf of Mexico, the swirling winds then struck savagely at New Orleans and Gulfport and Biloxi, Miss. Thousands in Florida and along the Gulf coast were left homeless. Damages to property and crops soared into millions of dollars.

FOOTBALL PRACTICE DE LUXE . . . Tough, cigar-chewing sports writers told Coach Jack Harding that this was a silly way to train the University of Miami football team for such opponents as Texas Christian, South Carolina, Vanderbilt and Alabama. His reply was brutally frank: "This part of training is being conducted especially for newsreel men and news photographers." The hurricane-battered Miami chamber of commerce probably didn't object to a little sunshine and pretty girl publicity either.

G.I.S. HOLDING THE BORDER . . . American soldiers of the 88th division are shown on duty at the recently established provisional border between Italy and Yugoslavia pending arrival of Italian and Yugoslav troops. When Marshal Tito's forces did move into position, they forced a number of "incidents" all along the line by attempting to move up into Italian territory.

PERFECT GAME . . . Ruth Elston of Toronto, Canada, entered softball's hall of fame when she pitched a perfect game against a Fort Worth team in a tournament at Cleveland. She struck out nine, allowed no hits or walks. It was the first perfect game in 15 years.

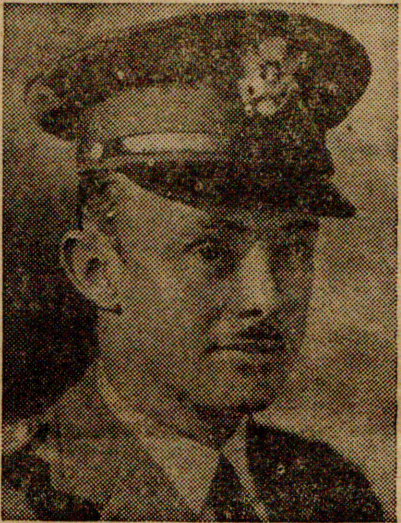

RIGHT OFF THE VINE . . . This daughter of la belle France doesn't even bother to look for wine. She prefers the juice of the grape unfertilized and makes a picture of ecstasy as she demolishes a bunch of France's choicest.

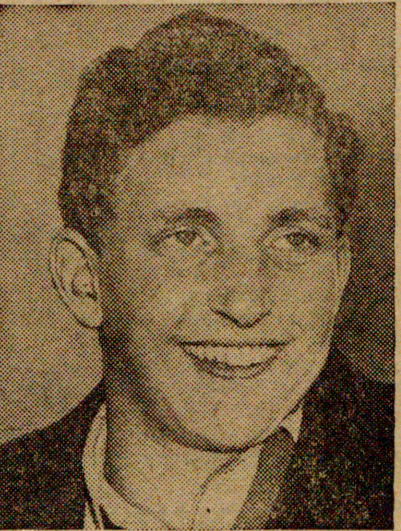

ROYAL NIMROD . . . Although he is 89 years old, King Gustav of Sweden is still an active sportsman. He is shown here in a blind while waiting for a shot during a recent two-day elk hunt. The king is a crack shot.

COMMUNIST LEADER . . . Italy's Russian-trained Communist boss, Palmiro Togliatti, told 100,000 shouting followers in Florence that the U. S. is a "world dictatorship" trying to "spread another war." Togliatti threatens to install leftist government in Italy.

ROBOT SKIPPER . . . Col. James M. Gillespie commanded U. S. robot plane, guided and flown by a "mechanical brain," that made flight from Newfoundland to England with its controls untouched by human hands. The "brain" lowered landing gear and flaps and brought ship to perfect landing in 10 hours and 15 minutes.

EXCHANGE STUDENT . . . Hermann Nickel of the Berlin suburb of Dahlem is first German exchange student to come to the U. S. since the war. Pronounced free of Nazism, he will study at Union college, Schenectady, N. Y.

WEST IS STILL WEST . . . Mae West, whom quite a few will recall as a well-known stage and screen star, is in England to present a revival of "Diamond Lil," the play she made famous, in a London theater.

Flag First Displayed
The United States flag was first used in the battle of Cooch's Bridge, Del., September 3, 1777. Whether or not Betsy Ross designed this flag is still open to argument.

Damaged Farm Land
About 50 million acres of once good cropland in the United States have been ruined by erosion, and another 50 million acres have been badly damaged.

Plaster Wall Finish
It is best not to paint or paper a new plaster wall until it has thoroughly dried out, which usually requires two months. If immediate decoration is desired, calcimine can be used.

Board Bill Loss
It is estimated that last year's board bill for the European corn borer cost American farmers at least $37,700,000.

THE FICTION CORNER

HARD GUYS

By MILTON BRACKER

THE dead man's foot protruded from the blanket like a discarded boot. A pan of water rested on the sidewalk; they had tried to do something for him, without being able to. Just an ordinary sidewalk, a speeding car, a rat-tat-tat and that was all. Another not-so-big shot was through.

Five minutes after the cops came, a squeaky sedan jolted to a stop at the opposite curb. Half-a-dozen men piled out.

"Reporters," someone in the crowd decided.

The newcomers took in the scene in a matter-of-fact way, then swarmed about the lieutenant and the homicide squad man and plied them with questions. One of the newspapermen was chewing gum. The others were smoking and one rotund fellow laughed raucously at something the homicide squad man said. Soon a few broke away and headed for the drugstore across the street with the blue and white telephone emblem outside. Within twenty minutes all of them squeezed back into the car.

"S'long, Mac, see y' in church," the man at the wheel yelled to the lieutenant as the gears meshed.

"Hard guys," the man in the crowd muttered, as the machine turned the corner.

"You said it," his companion agreed, dryly.

An hour later, Joe Melsner of the City News Federation, "Old Man" of the borough's police reporters, left the smoky-walled pressroom on the ground floor of the Supreme Court Building to buy an afternoon paper. Johnny Hennessy, of the Globe, the kid of the shack, sat in a corner figuring out his expense account. Jim Reide, of the Post-Flash, Nason, of the Mail, Cohen, of the Reflector and Lenox, of the Home Press, with a few of the usual pressroom hangers-on, were at the inevitable rummy game. Opposite, Delany, of the Star, legs stretched majestically across his desk and feet high in the air, sat back reading a fat book with a scarlet cover and yellow edges. Levito, who was with an up-county paper, fidgeted in a phone booth, waiting to "clean up" the shooting story.

A voice thundered in the corridor. The others looked up; they always did when Melsner spoke. He was pointing to something huddled at the doorway.

"Now what d'ya call this?" the Old Man grunted, stooping over.

He picked up the cringing something and deposited it gingerly on his desk, a massive roll-top affair with "Private: Keep Out!" on it in forbidding letters. The "something" was a very tiny dog, a bedraggled puppy that looked as if it hadn't eaten in as long as it hadn't bathed. Its eyes were red-rimmed, as if with weeping. But there was a pink spot on the end of the moist black nose. And the eyes themselves sparkled, giving a pert look to the whole tangle bundle.

Hennessy stopped pondering, Delany tossed his book aside, and both ambled over. Reide turned his head from the card table.

"The mutt probably has fleas," he remarked. "Keep it off my desk."

As if understanding, the puppy turned to its critic appealingly. Melsner laughed gruffly, ignoring the complaint.

"It's a cute-lookin' mutt at that, ain't it, kid?" the Old Man winked to Hennessy. "Send out and we'll give it a feed."

One of the ever-present boot-blacks was dispatched across the street. In a minute or two, the pooch was sipping milk and sniffing chopmeat, oblivious to further criticism, or his audience.

"Hennessy caught the clerk with a hard left to the jaw."

"We'll call him Ginger," Hennessy suggested. "Lookit the fire in his eyes, will you?" Ginger yapped appreciatively, provocatively. That finished the card game. Reide, the most die-hard of the players, threw down his gummy cards, and with the others, gathered around Melsner's desk. Fondly they watched the grimy little mutt push his snout into the worm-like chopmeat.

Two days later, Ginger was part of the life of the shack. A bootblack had been commissioned to give him a bath, to provide a lined box for a bed, to continue general caretaking. While the men were out on stories—holdups, suicides, fires, whatnot—Ginger tripped around impatiently, until they came back. Then he greeted them joyously, with quick, short, barking yelps.

The pressroom was crowded one sultry afternoon, crowded with sweaty men in shirtsleeves. At the card table, next to Reide, was Al Brown, a thick-necked hardware clerk who spent his idle hours with what he called the "newshounds."

Ginger, temporarily deserted, sniffed in and out of the chair legs, feeling for Reide, who always petted him. The dog rubbed against Brown's trousers by mistake.

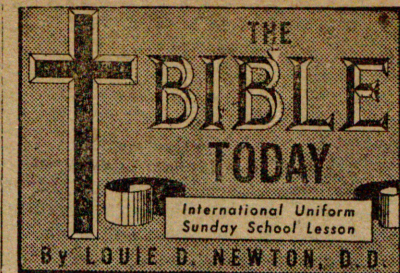

"Why, the ——" the startled clerk swore. He reached down, picked up the pup clumsily, and tossed him carelessly to the floor about a yard away. "Wonder you guys wouldn't keep animals out here," he growled, drawing a card. "You'd think it was a zoo."

Nobody replied. Hennessy looked up queerly from his typewriter.

Ginger, not having sensed the rebuff, returned to the table. Again he brushed Brown's trousers. As if having anticipated the annoyance, the clerk kicked vigorously. There was a sharp squeal, then Ginger, living up to his name, bit.

Brown roared, grabbed the pooch from his leg, and before anyone could protest, hurled him with crushing force against the wall. There was a crunch, then a whimper.

Every eye in the place turned to the battered little body on the floor. But in a split second, every eye was glued on the centre of the room,

Lesson for October 12, 1947

THIS lesson opens, Hebrews 3:1-8, with the explanation that Jesus Christ is the minister of better things in that he is the apostle and high priest of our profession, perfectly faithful to him that appointed him. The comparison is made with Moses, who was also faithful, but within a very small circle as contrasted with the Son of God.

Called to God an high priest after the order of Melchisedec, Christ, the author of eternal salvation, dealt no longer with symbols, but offered himself as the perfect lamb to take away our sins.

"And for this cause he is the mediator of the new covenant (testament), that by means of death, for the redemptions of the transgressions that were under the first testament, they which are called might receive the promise of eternal inheritance," Hebrews 9:15.

Dr. Newton

Jesus and the Bible

JESUS is introduced in Matthew 4:1-4, as he quotes the Old Testament to Satan in the wilderness temptation. Having been reared by a God-fearing mother, Jesus was familiar with the Bible as a child.

What is the best thing any parent can do for his or her child? I would answer without hesitation: Teach them to hide God's words in their hearts in the impressionable years of youth. A Bible verse learned in youth will serve through all life's testing situations.

"I will not forget Thy Word," Psalms 119:16.

He Helps Us Use the Bible

THE better ministry of Jesus is reflected in the fact that, "We have a great high priest, that is passed into the heavens, Jesus the Son of God. . . . For we have not an high priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin. Let us therefore come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need," Hebrews 4:14-16.

Study the example of Jesus in his answers to Satan in the wilderness temptation, and He will teach us when and what to say to Satan. We are not dependent upon our wisdom and words. Our great high priest will supply wisdom and words to match any situation that Satan ever presents.

I think of a story of a junior boy, recently accused of stealing. The boy was the victim of a wicked man who sought to turn circumstantial evidence upon him to cover his own sin. The boy told me that he was innocent. I went with him to the juvenile court. The judge asked him if he was guilty. He looked straight into the eyes of the judge and said:

"Sir, I have not sinned. Who convicteth me of this charge?"

The man dropped his head, and said: "Your honor, I ask for the privilege of withdrawing the charge."

His Laws in Our Hearts

"I WILL put my laws on their hearts, and upon their minds also will I write them," Hebrews 10:16. Jesus declares, "I do always the things that please him," and he enables us, by his grace, to do the father's will by his indwelling in our hearts. Thus, his will becomes the law of our lives, through the grace of Jesus Christ.

It is impossible for us to keep the law perfectly, but Christ, the better Christ, becomes our righteousness, and then his law is kept by his grace. In the olden times, men claimed to keep the letter of the law, without the spirit, as in the case of Moses. Now, through the offering of Christ, we are enabled to satisfy the spirit of the law.

The Sufficient Christ

THIS lesson should enhearten every trusting child of God, since it makes clear that, "He is able to save unto the uttermost them that draw near unto God through him," Hebrews 7:25.

He is not only able, but yearns to save unto the uttermost. He wills to save everyone. God has done everything he can do to save every sentient soul on this earth. Those who go to hell do so because they decide to go to hell. It is not the pleasure of God that any should perish, but that all should repent and be saved.

Watch Your Kidneys! Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes fail in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Village Board Items

At the meeting of the village board, October 3, it was suggested that we have a clean-up week, in which all residents will be expected to trim hedges interfering with the safety of pedestrians and motorists alike, and to cut and burn weeds on vacant lots, which are causing hay-fever sufferers much discomfort.

It was also stated, that Mr. McQueen promised that the viaduct at 159th street would be completed at the expected time. A letter is being written by the board asking the state to finish 159th street from Latrobe avenue to Leclaire avenue, giving residents of Wyman's woods a passage through to the north side of 159th street and to Cicero avenue. A sidewalk is to be supplied for the school children of that district also.

Speed signs will be posted as soon as possible designating the traffic to be 25 miles an hour through the village, and lights will be supplied for the viaducts. The condition of the Arbor Park and Forest Ridge schools was discussed. Something must be done to alleviate the conditions there. The schools are much too small for the number of children enrolled, and there are not enough teachers.

Dance Date Set

Plans are being made for a dance to be given December 13 at Saenger hall for the Village of Oak Forest, sponsored by the board and the Volunteer Fire Department. The proceeds will be distributed between the fire department and the youth playground program.
